Hunt for Mahan Centers Around Butte, Montana

Air of Expectancy in Kidnap Search Subsides

MAY HAVE ESCAPED

Chief of Police Doubts Whether Suspect Still in Hiding

SALT LAKE CITY.—(AP)—The air of expectancy around the search for William Mahan, scarfed suspect in the George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping, subsided early Wednesday but a heavy force of officers remained at Butte, Mont., in the belief he still was in that vicinity.

After federal agents and police had followed up dozens of clues without success, Jere Murphy, chief of police, said he believed the 32-year-old ex-convict had escaped through a tight net of police patrols possibly hitherto.

Chief Murphy's assistant, Jack Dugan, however, said emphatically that the much-sought suspect could not have slipped through the police lines and that he still was in hiding in or near Butte.

Mahan was seen there last Sunday when he abandoned a motor car containing $15,155 of the $200,000 ransom paid for the release of the nine-year-old Tacoma, Wash., timber fortune heir.

Couple Face Death

Harmon W. Waley, young ex-convict, and his blonde wife, who are reported to have confessed their part in the kidnaping, still were held here, but arrival of a complaint charging them with violating the federal kidnaping law was expected to throw the operation machinery for their removal to Tacoma.

The Lindbergh law charges were filed against the Waleys and Mahan, after an announcement by federal authorities that it had been determined the kidnap victim was taken across the Washington state line into Idaho.

Previously it had been indicated the couple would be returned to Washington to face the untested state kidnaping law which carries an automatic death penalty unless the jury recommends leniency.

The Lindbergh law calls for a death sentence only if the victim has been harmed.

More than half of the $200,000 ransom had been recovered Wednesday, with the finding of $90,000 cashed beneath an ant hill in rugged, brush strewn canyon near here it was the Waleys who reportedly disclosed the hiding place of their shares of the money.

Plead Not Guilty to Kidnap Charges

Federal Charges Are Filed Against Couple Held at Fayetteville

FAYETTEVILLE.—(AP)—R. Del Hudson and his wife Dorothy, pleaded not guilty and waived preliminary hearings Wednesday on federal charges in connection with the kidnaping of Louis Egan, 13, last December at McAlester, Okla.

Bonds of $2,000 for Hudson and $500 for the woman was set. The couple was committed to the Sebastian county jail to await an order on their removal to the eastern district of Oklahoma.

Federal charges under the Lindbergh law were filed against the couple.

Wilson Says He Is Same Man O'Neal Backed With $300,000

Senator Wilson Explains Claims Filed at Little Rock, Declares No Fees Are Charged by Him for Their Collection

Editor, Hope Star: From Mr. N. P. O'Neal's letter published in your paper under date of June 6, 1935, I learned that he has ascertained that claims were filed by me and others before certain Commissions in Little Rock for payment. He asks three questions, as follows:

1. Would it be out of place to ask Mr. Wilson to give us some details of these claims?

2. Does he get fees for their collection?

3. Does he present them free of charge?

I am glad to answer these questions in the order named:

1. It is not out of place to ask me about this matter. I am an officer of the Twentieth Senatorial District, and the people have a right to ask me about my conduct as their officer. However, I fail to understand Mr. O'Neal on this first question. He evidently thought it was not out of place or he would not have asked about it.

He asks his first question, and then running true to form, answers it before anyone else has time to speak. He is somewhat confused about these claims being filed with a commission. The claims were introduced in the form of bills in the legislature, and then the legislature created the Claims commission, and referred all of said bills to said commission.

The claims I presented were made by reputable citizens of my district, and each of the claimants are represented by reputable lawyers of my district. These claimants are entitled to a hearing by the proper constituted authority of the state to determine the merits of their claims.

2. No, I do not get fees for the collection of these claims. I am not a lawyer, and I had no interest in the claims other than as a representative of the people of my district to see that they get a hearing. Apparently Mr. O'Neal's attitude toward me has undergone a material change; only a year or so ago he signed my bond as sheriff and collector of Hempstead county for three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000.00). Evidently he thought I was honest then.

3. I presented these claims free of charge and consider the salary paid me to represent the Twentieth Senatorial District is sufficient remuneration for my services in serving the people of this district.

I am at a loss to understand why Mr. O'Neal's opinion of me has undergone such a change. I was very much perturbed when I first read his letter, but after thinking it all over I have reached the conclusion that Mr. O'Neal has not changed his opinion about me.

However, he could have very easily asked me or called me over the telephone with respect to this matter, and he knows I would have answered him. But the trouble with Brother O'Neal is that he has a mania for the "limelight" and just can't help from breaking into the papers.

I still have a very friendly feeling for Brother O'Neal, and, of course, if he feels that his influence is on the wane and that it is necessary in order to keep himself before the people to break out in the paper occasionally, it is perfectly all right.

Respectfully,
JOHN L. WILSON.

CROWN weary of reformers whose idealistic yearnings out-

run their common sense a harassed Michigan newspaper editor the other day suggested that a pretty fair sort of man to pattern after in these parlous times is old Benjamin Franklin.

Franklin, remarked this editor, was that rarity, a man who could work for radical reforms and at the same time keep both feet squarely on the ground and remember the importance of money in the cash drawer.

"Ben was a New Dealer, too, and wanted things changed (quite a bit), the editor mused. 'He liked women, built cook stoves, wrote editorials, published a paper, and discovered electricity—but his perspective of things was eternally right.'"

X X X

At a time when the U. S. Supreme Court has sprung some very chilly water on the skins of ardent reformers who remembered everything except the value of practicality, Franklin and his inexhaustible fund of common sense are worth remembering.

Franklin, as the Michigan editor points out, was a New Dealer. If we think we have public discontent with the status quo in our land today, we might remind ourselves that it is only a pale shadow of the discontent that was abroad in the land in 1776.

The old order was being put into limbo with bullets, then, and Franklin was one of the men who would have gone on the scaffold if the attempt had failed. If we are getting a new deal today, we got a new deal and a new game then.

X X X

Such times provide a field day for crack-pots. They attempt a man who wants to see a new order of things established to follow his ideals until his feet leave ground.

Franklin, one of the foremost of the idealists, never once lost his contact with reality.

He was able, that is, to build for the future without forgetting the necessity for living in the present. He could go to Paris and sell the most authentic corn in Europe on the beauties of democracy and freedom.

$1,000 Is Needed for Flood Relief

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(AP)—The Red Cross appealed Tuesday to businessmen in an attempt to raise $1,000 to alleviate the suffering of 500 persons driven from their homes by the sixth spring flood on the Arkansas river.

Louis Cohen, Red Cross disaster chairman, said the situation is desperate for the refugees. A truckload of foodstuff is expected to be sent to the Lavaca bottoms where distress was described as acute.

After conferring with Red Cross headquarters at St. Louis, Cohen said $1,000 was necessary for flood relief in Sebastian county. Appeals were sent to 500 businessmen.

The Arkansas river continued to fall slowly but still covered several thousand acres of bottomland and was nearly six feet above flood stage.

President Asks for a Permanent Peace in Address

Delivers Speech to Class of U. S. Military Academy

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(AP)—President Roosevelt called for an "assurance of permanent peace" before the United States Military Academy graduating class Wednesday.

The president announced his approval of legislation to increase the military force because of his conviction that the army had been reduced "to a level unjustified by our own safety."

Mrs. Roosevelt Gives Advice

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Tuesday night advised the graduating class of the University of North Carolina to "think out new ways of doing things," as she addressed a huge audience in Kenan Memorial Stadium here.

The wife of the president, first woman to deliver the commencement address in the 140-year history of the university, told the graduates they "must frame new objectives."

"These are difficult times," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "We are more prosperous and hopeful than a few years ago. But we, who look at realities and you graduates must look at realities. We cannot say we are satisfied with our country or things as they exist today."

Mrs. Roosevelt was one of a group who received honorary degrees from the university.

VOTE to Eliminate Rider

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The senate tangle over NRA legislation was partly cleared away Wednesday when administration forces won a test vote looking to eliminate a rider requiring confirmation of all federal officials drawing $4,000 annual or more.

The vote placed the administration in a position to seek reconsideration of a vote by which the rider added to a resolution extending NRA in abridged form, but a possible filibuster by Senator Huey P. Long, threatened.

New Taxes Said to Find House Favor

Predict Stiff Inheritance, Gift Levies Could Be Enacted

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Prompt passage of stiff inheritance and higher gift taxes was forecast by House Democratic leaders if President Roosevelt should ask such levies.

Their statements were made after a check disclosed a big majority of House Ways and Means Committee members, who are charged with originating all tax bills, would vote for such a proposal.

"A tax plan of that kind would, to my mind, be very beneficial," said Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, Democratic whip. "I think it would pass the House without any trouble."

Speaker Byrnes said that he believed any inheritance tax program on a "reasonable" basis would meet a "cordial reception" in the House. He contended that inheritance and gifts must be taxed at virtually the same rates to keep holders of huge fortunes from giving away their money before death.

Another who said House approval would be "certain" was Representative Sublette of Illinois, chairman of the unofficial Democratic Steering Committee.

"But," he added, "if such a bill does come along I hope it will not only tax inheritances and gifts but also increase the taxes on bigger income brackets and tax chain stores."

Talk of Request Persists

Talk about a possible presidential request for the inheritance taxes persisted.

The general belief was that if Mr. Roosevelt did make such a proposal it would be along the lines suggested by Secretary Morgenthau before the Senate Finance Committee. Questioned on means of raising additional revenue, Morgenthau said application of present income tax rates to inheritances and gifts would produce $300,000,000 to $600,000,000 annually.

On the basis of that suggestion the Ways and Means Committee members were polled. Fourteen, almost without qualification, said they would vote for such a proposal; two said they would not, and nine were doubtful.

Mabel Davis, negro, living near Fulton in Miller county, died Tuesday afternoon at a Texarkana hospital as the result of injuries sustained Monday when struck by an automobile. The accident occurred just west of the Fulton toll bridge.

Christine Davis, negro, testified in court that it was the Ward automobile which struck the negro woman. Hubert Mitchell, white youth, testified he saw the license tags on the car, and furnished the information which led to the arrest of Ward.

No warrant had been issued for the arrest of Ward on a manslaughter charge. Deputy Prosecuting Attorney W. B. Smith had the matter under advisement, pending word from Prosecuting Attorney Ned Stewart.

Fire of Foe Centers on President

BY BRUCE CATTON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—If the Republicans were the victims of a "smear Hoover" campaign in 1932, they seem to be getting ready to return to combat, with interest added, in 1936.

By putting their car to the ground at the "grass roots" convention of Republicans here, you could get a fair idea of the general line of attack which the G. O. P. will follow in the next presidential campaign.

It will be an aggressive campaign, and President Roosevelt will be the principal target.

If speeches delivered at the convention are a good indication, Republican strategy is shaping itself for a grand assault on dictatorship and bureaucracy, with Mr. Roosevelt cast in the role of chief dictator and bear bureaucracy.

If there was a time when it was considered good policy to attack members of the "brain trust" rather than Roosevelt himself, that time has gone forever. The speakers here outdid themselves in attacking him.

Lashes at Roosevelt

Consider, for instance, the way in which Robert C. Simmons, former congressman from Nebraska, described to the delegates President Roosevelt's comments on the U. S. Supreme Court's overruling of NRA.

In these remarks, said Simmons, the president was attacking not the court, but "the Constitution that stands as the bulwark between the individual and the collective state which the president now seeks to set up."

And he added:

"Make the question of giving to the national government the dictatorial powers over the states, local communities, and individuals that the

Special Session of Sebastian Quorum Court Votes Appropriation

FORT SMITH.—(AP)—Statements and counter-statements continued flying Wednesday between Paul Lynch, Sebastian circuit clerk, and Griffin Smith, state comptroller.

Arrangements were being completed here Wednesday for a private audit of the affairs of the circuit clerk's office for 1934.

Replying to Smith's version of facts leading to a fist fight between the comptroller, circuit clerk and two others, Lynch said that "Griffin Smith seems incapable of telling the truth."

To Make Private Audit

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(AP)—The wrangle between the state Auditorial Department and the Sebastian county circuit clerk's office—marked by biting statements and a flurry of fist-cuffs—resulting Tuesday in an order for a private audit of the 1934 accounts of the circuit clerk's office.

A special session of the county Quorum Court voted an appropriation for the audit of the clerk's 1934 accounts, and in so doing followed up a recommendation of the grand jury that a private audit be made.

The court directed a committee be appointed to employ competent accountants to audit the affairs of the office, checking their results with the report filed by state Comptroller Griffin Smith.

The special Quorum Court session was by County Judge R. P. Strozier, who said, "The grand jury evidently did not believe the state comptroller's report to be correct."

An audit report by the state comptroller's office charged there was a shortage of $4,200 in the accounts of former Circuit Clerk Oscar Durden.

Additional Shortage Reported

Judge Strozier said "one member of the grand jury, a competent accountant, found in one day's time there was an additional $500 shortage not included in the $4,200 declared missing in the comptroller's report."

Present Circuit Clerk Paul Lynch was drawn into the squabble when statement by Smith, labeled "Audit Comments," was submitted to the

Beware of Poison Ivy, If You Are Scruffy

Before this time of year gets into your blood and you decide to go camping or hiking, you should consider whether you are susceptible to inflammation from contact with poison ivy. If so, you must be prepared to cope with this disease, if you happen to come into contact with the plant.

You can easily recognize the poison ivy plant by the character of its foliage, which always develops into shoot of three small leaves. It also occasionally has white berries which look like those of the mistletoe.

Poison ivy causes inflammation through the fact that the person who is sensitive gets from the sap of the plant an oily substance which contains the irritant. This oil is found not only in the leaves and stems, but also in the roots.

Usually the irritant is spread over the body of the person who becomes contaminated. He is likely to grasp the vine as he passes. He contaminates his hands with the oily secretion. Thereafter, he handles his clothing or touches various portions of his body and spreads the irritant oil to them.

As soon as this irritant sap or oil comes in contact with the skin of a sensitive person, he begins to develop a burning and itching sensation. Then the skin becomes red and swollen and small blisters form. These eventually may run together and form large blisters.

Since the inflammation comes from the sap or oil on the skin, the first important step is to get it off. Oils are not easily soluble in water. Therefore, any attempt to wash off the oil with water is not likely to be successful.

There are various substances which will dissolve the oil; for example, kerosene. However, it also is possible to dissolve the oil by making a thick soapy lather which emulsifies the poisonous oil, and then washing off the soapy lather from the skin with running water.

Scratching the skin or rubbing it with a stiff brush is not a good procedure, because this tends to break the surface and to cause the irritant oil to penetrate.

Various medicinal solutions can be applied, but they should be prescribed by the doctor who sees the patient. To use them without a prescription may lead to harm.

A BOOK A DAY

Sees Era of Reality in Politics at Last

For the first time since the Civil War American politics today are a reflection of reality. The innumerable popular leaders who are attracting followings outside of the two old parties are serving to clear the air and to make possible a definite choice between New Deal reforms and a return to the 1925 status quo.

This is the size-up of that anonymous Washington correspondent who signs himself "The Unofficial Observer" as expressed in his new book, "American Messiahs."

The book is a discussion of such men as Senator Long, Father Coughlin, Dr. Townsend, and the various mavericks such as LaFollette, Huey P. Long, Olson, and Bilbo.

This author sees little of the threat of Fascism which some liberals have noted. Instead, he says that all these men express a common desire for social and economic reform.

Mr. Roosevelt, he says, cannot follow this desire to its limit or he will fail politically; what these men do is clear the way for him and solidify the sentiment which will enable the

Landis Will Take Up Case of Pitts

Sends Message to Executive Committee Chairman Asking Details

ALBANY, N. Y.—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, czar of baseball, yielded a point Tuesday in the face of rising public indignation over the case of Alabama Pitts, and telegraphed the Executive Committee of the National Association of Minor Leagues for a full report on the reasons why the ex-Sing Sing star was rejected so peremptorily as a player on the Albany team.

Rising from his sick bed in a Chicago hotel, he sent a message to Warren Giles, chairman of the Executive Committee, asking the details at once. From these, Landis said, he will be able to determine whether he should call a hearing next week to settle the question.

Can a man who has erred, but reformed, be allowed to play professional baseball?

Hundreds Support Pitts

Yes, said hundreds of telegrams and letters which poured in on Johnny Evers, manager of the Albany team, and on Pitts himself.

Typical was one from Charles Evans Hughes Jr., son of the chief justice of the Supreme Court, which said: "Courage. Stay with your decision. Any one opposed to Pitts is un-American."

Pitts, still hopeful, made a request to Evers which endeared him to the Albany team more than ever. He has been quartered in a room at the Ten Eyck hotel. Tuesday, he went to Evers and said:

"Johnny, the room is fine. But I'd rather live in one of the furnished rooms out near the ball park, where I can see the other players and sort of get into practice before I play."

So Evers found him a room near the park. Pitts dropped his meager luggage there, went over to the park in his street clothes, and spent the afternoon battling flies to a member of the team.

JOE PARKER, Katharine's friend, has an unhappy love life and is saved from suicide by young DIL JOHN KAYE.
Overhearing two detectives ask for Michael's address, Katharine rushes to warn him, although she has not seen him since his engagement to SALLY MOON, local coquette, has been announced.
Michael refuses to go away unless Katharine comes with him. They are married in an obscure little town. Then Michael insists on returning to New York and leaves Katharine to her fate.
Katharine, frantic when she does not hear from him, believes Michael has tricked her. Sally, to see the lawyer handling the case. He is injured in a traffic accident.
Katharine, frantic when she does not hear from him, believes Michael has tricked her. Sally, to see the lawyer handling the case. He is injured in a traffic accident.

AFTER a procession of such meaningless days, punctuated only by trays and pills and visits from a tall, melancholy doctor with a gentle voice, and white-coated internes who poked and prodded Michael and asked him questions, he was able to sit up. The dark girl (her name was Sally Moon, it seemed) came often now. And there was an Englishman named Downrigg who made them move Michael from the ward to a private room. Michael couldn't quite understand why it mattered or why Mr. Downrigg cared, but there it was. One day Downrigg came and they had a long talk. Michael, dressed for the first time in his street clothes, was sitting in a comfortable chair out in the pavilion. Downrigg talked a lot about the estate (what estate? Michael wanted to ask but didn't bother) and said there was a good deal of money tied up, although not, of course, as much as one would like. Death duties and so on, he had said portentously. "You'll be sailing, I suppose, as soon as you are well," Downrigg had said. "And after you're married."

After he was married. The phrase, for an instant, stirred some memory in Michael, but it passed. It had been like a breeze passing over a wheat field, bending the stalks only for a moment. After he was married—well, men married every day. This Sally-girl was solicitous. She kissed him when she came and went. It wasn't unpleasant. He ought to remember more about her, though. And couldn't. Downrigg went on. Life was leaving for England on the morrow, he said. They could find him in London. He left Michael his card. On this side, he said, the affairs were in the hands of Whitbread & Forrest in Wall Street. He wrote the address down. Michael could draw on them. "That's nice," Michael said, looking down at his oddly thin, oddly helpless hands. Once they had been broad. . . .

Michael opened his eyes and stared about him. There was a square of light that marked the window. He shut his eyes again, because that light hurt him and he felt sore all over—almost as if he had been bruised in a fight. Yesterday. . . . Yesterday. . . . There was something he wanted to remember. And could not. So he closed his eyes and lay still. Presently the sound of crisp, starched skirts rustling came to his ears, and he opened his eyes again, just a little. There was a nurse. She had a cool, wide face with smiling eyes. She had a thermometer in her hand and she shook it a little, smiling down at him.

"Well, we're quite a lot better today, aren't we?" she said. Michael would have frowned if frowning, like the square of light, hadn't hurt him. Nurses always talked that way, as if the patient were a child. Was he better? He didn't know. Wasn't sure, even, that he had been really ill. It was too much trouble to talk. The nurse wrote something down on a chart that hung on the foot of the bed; Michael could see that much, out of the mere crack he had opened in his shuttered lids. Then she went away and came back again with a cloudy draught which she held to his lips.

"Oh, good!" The words came drowsily, almost involuntarily, and he could feel a very vibration of triumph go through the nurse's body as she kept cool professional fingers on his wrist. "Well now, isn't that splendid! He likes his medicine, does he? Well, it's very good he shall see somebody after a bit, and that will make him better still."

Michael hadn't the remotest idea what she was talking about, and he didn't care in the least. It was far too much trouble to ask. He drowsed again and the pain was less. There was somebody—a girl in a dark frock—at his bedside when he awakened. She kissed him and wept a little and this tired Michael. The nurse took her away, making soothing noises. After that he slept for a long time and when he woke again there was a splash of rain against the windows and the room was cooler. It was, the nurse told him brightly, another day.

It was easier after that because he was stronger. Only there was a sort of cloudiness at the back of his brain—not wholly disagreeable, but rather worrying. If that cloudiness would lift, Michael felt, he could remember a great deal. He didn't tell the doctors that. He had never been ill in his life before and, for all he knew, this dizziness, this feeling of not being quite sure of oneself might be a part of convalescence.

He satisfied Sally by being gentle and subdued and entirely tractable. He no longer frowned and urged delay when she spoke of their coming marriage, but let her have things her way. There was something familiar about the streets through which Sally and her father presently drove him. They expected him to smile in recognition, and so he did, because he didn't like to disappoint them. They had been so kind. And when they drew up at a shabby house under pin oak trees out on a country road he felt a flash of something that was almost like pain. A young colored boy came out and shook his hand and said he was glad to see him back. Michael was very polite all through

A Trifle Tight Fit, but Becoming

President Roosevelt never could be accused of having a swelled head, but seems to be having a little difficulty making this fez fit as he puts it on for the Shriners' convention, under way in Washington. The chief executive doffed the Almas Temple headgear when "visited at the White House by a group of Shrine officials."

"Oh, we get some variety. In winter it's his stamp collection and in summer it's birds' eggs."

Aid Society Man Visits in Hope

Major L. A. Odum Is Here in Interest of Rescue Home for Girls

Major L. A. Odum, field secretary of the American Aid Society, of Shreveport, was here Monday and Tuesday in the interest of a Tri-State Rescue Home being operated in his city, for unfortunate girls and babies.

Major Odum said that he had spent some four decades in his lifetime effort to save unfortunate girls, and declared it to be America's greatest charity largely due to the many babies being saved, whose lives are entirely before them.

The Shreveport home is Southwestern-wide hence, renders aid to many unfortunate girls from Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas. It is free in its benefits and receives unfortunates from any section of the three states in question, however, remote the community may be.

Wm. E. Pollard, Past Commander of Chas. H. Catron Post No. 53, American Legion of Oak Grove, Louisiana, makes the following statement regarding the society.

"The writer has had occasion in his former capacity as Commander of an American Legion Post to secure the services of this institution and has found it to be most worthy in its activities. It is with pleasure that I write these few lines in advocacy of this society. Because it is rendering a very real and much-needed service to society and humanity. It is deserving of the full support of the public."

The above society is constantly restoring the broken link to the family circle as well as saving unwanted babies and placing them in homes. For further information regarding the work in question, Address P. O. Box 255 Shreveport, La., Rev and Mrs. J. T. Williamson.

Bolding Named New Commander

El Dorado Is Selected as the 1936 Encampment Site

De Queen, Ark., (AP)—Delegates to the annual state encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars voted unanimously to make W. A. Bolding of El Dorado their new department commander. He succeeds W. C. Wenger.

Other department heads elected were S. T. Button of Conway, senior vice president; L. A. French of Searcy junior vice president; C. R. Smith of Hot Springs, quartermaster; Gordon Armistead of Searcy, judge advocate; N. S. Smith of Searcy, chaplain.

New members of the council of administration include W. E. Siratt of Hot Springs; A. D. Rynders, El Dorado; W. A. Baxter, of Van Buren.

Before adjourning the convention, El Dorado was selected as the 1936 encampment site.

The morning session was devoted to a business meeting and the report of committees with officers elected and installed during the afternoon.

In a separate meeting the auxiliary re-elected Mrs. Nellie Bennett of Womack, department president; Mrs. Ruby Miller, Little Rock, senior vice president; Mrs. Sallie Adams of Fort Smith, junior vice president; Mrs. Ethel Tapp of Hot Springs, secretary; Claudia Powell of Camden, treasurer; Mary E. Button of Conway, judge advocate.

Dietrich Film Is of Love and Hate

"The Devil Is a Woman" Coming to the Saenger Thursday, Friday

Hollywood's famous director-actor combination, Josef von Sternberg and Marlene Dietrich, has again produced a colorful and dramatic love story in "The Devil Is a Woman," which comes Thursday and Friday to the Saenger.

The story tells of a woman whose beauty robbed men of their senses and whose faithfulness broke their hearts. The picture features Lionel Atwill and Cesar Romero as Miss Dietrich's new leading men.

The action of "The Devil Is a Woman" takes place at carnival time in a Spanish village. Two friends come into open conflict over the love of the heartless siren. At will, as the middle-aged lover ruined by his infatuation for Dietrich, attempts to save his young friend from her. She turns the friends against each other.

As a climax to a riotous night of never-ending the friends meet on the field of honor to duel for her love. Although Romero wins the duel, Dietrich surprises him when she shows that she understands the meaning of true love and turns to his vanquished rival.

Edward Everett Horton and Allison Skipworth appear in the supporting cast of "The Devil Is a Woman," which features new songs by Rainer and Robin, authors of "Love in Bloom" and other recent hits.

delegates this to think about: "For the first time in history, free institutions are in need of defense against the attacks of a national administration which has taken oath to uphold them. For the first time, American liberty and the hitherto inviolable rights of citizens are under assault by our own government."

"That a large segment of Republican thought sees in this kind of campaign an attack on Roosevelt in his most vulnerable point became evident from conversations with delegates as well as from the speeches delivered on the floor.

There seemed to be evident a widespread feeling that the NRA case marked a turning point in the history of the present administration.

Burnow "State Rights"

It was suggested repeatedly that the court decision merely climaxed a growing popular disillusionment with the Blue Eagle, and that the president, in his remarks about the decision, laid himself open to the charge that he seeks to change our form of government in such way as to make the president himself more powerful than either the legislative or the judicial branch of the government.

Coupled with this, there was displayed in some quarters a disposition to believe that the Republican party next year might well appropriate an ancient battle cry of the Democrats and campaign for state rights. Mr. Spangler hinted at it when he told the delegates:

"The rights of the states is independent units of self-government have been impaired. The jurisdiction of the states has been invaded. Government funds are held out a shurcs to induce the states to surrender rights which otherwise could not be coerced."

"The governors of the sovereign states stand, hat in hand, fearfully before petty bureaucrats to beg that funds bludgeoned by taxation from their own people be spent in their states."

Two Outstanding Issues
If the attitude evident at the grass roots convention wins the support of Republican leaders on a national scale, it is apparent that the Republican party in 1936 will campaign:

1.—Against dictatorship and bureaucracy, and for the constitutional guarantees of freedom to states and individuals.

2.—Against Roosevelt personally as an autocrat who would transform our traditional form of government in his quest for power.

Baptist Program Thursday Night

Will Have Pot-Luck Dinner in New Church Building

The Sunday school of First Baptist Church will have a potluck dinner in the dining room of the new building Thursday night at 7:30. The event will be informal in keeping with the roughness of the unfinished room. All members and friends of the church are invited to attend, and are invited to bring a covered dish with them.

There will be no lengthy program, but there will be two or three brief addresses by persons who have been interested directly or indirectly of the new building.

Mayor Albert Graves will speak on behalf of the city as a whole, the Rev. Robert Naylor of Nashville, Ark., will speak as a representative of other Baptist churches, and Dr. A. C. Kolb will speak as chairman of the finance committee which has headed the work of providing funds for the new building.

The mid-week officers' and teachers council meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:15 P. M. in the new building, and the mid-week prayer meeting will also be held in the same room at 8 o'clock. The pastor will continue the study in the Acts of the Apostles.

Braddock, Baer Fight Thursday

Baer Is Rated Big Odds to Whip the Cinderella Kid

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Jim Braddock the Cinderella Kid, will be heavily backed by sentiment, if nothing else, when he steps into the Long Island ring with Max Baer on Thursday night.

The hard-bitten boys came on from the sidewalks of New York to watch the Irish challenger wind up his training in two rounds of boxing with Jack McCarthy of Boston, the slugger who seemed to be going places until Charlie Retzlaf cut him down.

Ruefully, they shook their heads as McCarthy shot his right to the Braddock chin. If McCarthy could land his right, they mused, what would Baer do with his crushing right hand punch.

These wise in the business of evaluating fighters gave Braddock a small chance to win. Some said the former longshoreman was a 100 to 1 shot. Others however, having in mind his durability through a career of twice as many fights as Baer, said they would not be surprised if he upset the dope.

He licked Art Lasky when Lasky was considered good, they argue. He's got a good left hand and fear is no part of his mental make-up. Besides he is no longer the thin man; he weighed 104 Monday.

Meanwhile Baer, winding up his training at Asbury Park, N. J., took time out from his calisthenics to direct some verbal shots at Arthur Donovan the referee.

He said he would refuse to fight if Donovan, who handled his fights with Schmelling and Carnera, was chosen as referee.

Baer said he didn't question Donovan's honesty but that he thought he lost his head in the excitement.

Kidnaper's Pals to Face Lawyer

Accuse Laska of Aiding Bates in Disposal of "Snatch Money"

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP)—W. C. Lewis, United States district attorney announced Tuesday night the way for proving that Ben B. Laska, dapper lawyer from Denver, played an important part in assisting the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, wealthy Oklahoma oil man.

Urschel, for the fifth time, told the story of how he was snatched from his home here late one Saturday night by George ("Machine Gun") Kelly and Albert Bates. Laska was Bates' lawyer but was unable to save him from a sentence in the federal penitentiary.

It was for that defense, the government contends that Laska received $10,000 in ransom money, which since has "vanished into thin air."

Charges Outlined.

But that is not the chief point in the government's case against the Denver lawyer, Lewis declared.

"We are prepared to show he not only accepted part of the ransom money as a fee but also directed disposal of the $75,000 that Bates received as his share in the Urschel ransom," Lewis said.

To support that contention, the government will call Wednesday Edward Feldman, son-in-law of Bates, and his mother, Clara Feldman, whose honeymoon with the convicted kidnaper was cut short by his arrest.

Prosecutors said that Feldman will tell the federal jury that Laska accepted $8,000 from ransom cash from him in Denver and $2,000 in a hotel room in Oklahoma City, also that Laska instructed him minutely in the disposition of the remainder of Bates' "snatch" booty.

Sam Day's Pal Is Given 99-Year Term

DURANT, Okla.—(AP)—Rufe McCain, Arkansas fugitive and confessed robber of the Idabel National Bank a month ago, was sentenced to 99 years in the federal prison Tuesday for kidnapping two bank employees.

Rebuking the jury for not assessing the death penalty, Federal Judge R. L. Williams said: "In the next such robbery, a son or daughter of one of you jurors may be taken as a hostage."

LONGEST HITTER

Duplicating his first-round score of 73, one over par, Jimmy Thomson, above, the longest hitter in the sport, went into the lead at the end of the second round of the National Open at Oakmont, Pittsburgh. Flashing across the waters of Marine Stadium, at Long Beach, Calif., Loretta Turnbull, international speedboat champion, puts her "Sunlight Kid 11th" through its paces in tuning up for a new onslaught on existing speedboat records. Here's the daring woman driver with her boat under full power skipping over the waves.

G. O. P. SEEKS INSPIRATION AT LINCOLN SHRINE

Gathered at the scene of Abraham Lincoln's early struggle for education and livelihood, "grass roots" Republicans heard speakers stress the principles of the Emancipator for guidance in the G. O. P. campaign against the "bureaucratic and dictatorial" aims of President Roosevelt. The throng which assembled at the replica of the trading post of New Salem, Ill., is shown here, listening to speeches being delivered from the balcony of the Lincoln museum, at the right.

Here's NEWS—Bull Throws Congressman!

By the old axiom of a man getting a dog being news, here's a super news picture—a bull caught in the act of throwing off a congressman. Representative Jack Nichols of Oklahoma is the victim who came out second best in a bulldogging exhibition at Washington, D. C. The "rodeo" was staged by the Oklahoma

Self-Crucifixion All in Vain

Two hours of torture which J. R. Riggs, 36, High Point, N. C., filling station operator, endured after he had compelled his son by a former marriage to nail his hands and feet to the rude cross shown above, failed to effect the hoped-for reconciliation with the wife who left him more than a month ago. Riggs, who at first blamed the deed on three anonymous men, is shown below in his hospital cot.

A Gingery 'Light Fantastic'

The embodiment of grace and harmony as they whirl about the polished floor, filmland's famed dance partners, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, provide a new and peppy number that has them all awheel. This dance, to be featured in a forthcoming Hollywood production, is aptly titled "catch-a-train." To judge from the scene above, they caught it!

Hauptmann's Case in Bulk

These four packing cases give an idea of the task confronting the New Jersey high court which is scheduled on June 20 to hear Bruno Hauptmann's appeal from conviction and death sentence for the Lindbergh kidnaping. C. Lloyd Fisher (left) and Frederick A. Pope are shown with the 210 volumes of defense evidence they brought to the State House at Trenton. And that doesn't include the state's counter-evidence.

Thrilling Society at Belmont Park Opening

Bluebloods of society and horsedom vied for attention as Belmont Park, society's racing mecca near New York, was opened for the season with a colorful display of finery and an exciting card of races. Here's a thrilling moment in the steeplechase as the field takes one of the hazardous water jumps. Although he's trailing in this picture, Spinach, second from left, won the race.

Where Bullets Thudded Knell of Filipino Uprising

This row of bullet-riddled bodies back of a churchyard wall in Cabuyao symbolizes the end of another Philippine uprising, in which the Sakdalistas, a left wing political group, were routed with heavy losses after they had attempted to storm several island towns. Hemmed in by the constabulary, this band felt fighting behind the barricade to which they fled for their last stand, preferring death to surrender.

Skiing in Stratosphere

There is no height to which a skier will not rise in seeking a spot in the hot summer sun. The snow fields of Paradise Valley in Rainier National Park having thawed out, these three adventuresome souls climbed to the topmost brink of McClure Rock, 8,000 feet high, in search of favorable skiing. Pulling 11-year-old Maurice Peterson over the top are Ken Syversen, left, and Jack Singer.

Capture Proves VICTORY SMILE U.S. Never Quits

Grin warning to kidnapers that federal agents never quit the search was given in arrest of Walter Holland, alias "Irish" O'Malley, shown in jail in Kansas City, Mo. Holland was caught after a two-year hunt, suspected as a ringleader in the kidnaping of August Luer, Alton, Ill., banker, in 1933, for which six others now are in prison.

A local boy made good in his home town when Sam Parks, Jr., above, won the National Open golf tournament at Oakmont, Pittsburgh. Parks, University of Pittsburgh graduate, has been playing tournament golf only a short time, yet he defeated some of the game's greatest players, coming from behind on the last two rounds to nose out Jimmy Thomson, Californian. He hopes to make a dollar for each of the 50,000 practice putts he took on the course prior to the Open.

Bank Employee Takes Own Life

Byron Kendall, DeQueen, Says He Is Tired of Being Sick

DEQUEEN, Ark.—Byron Kendall, 29, bookkeeper in a local bank shot himself through the heart with a .22 caliber pistol at noon Tuesday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kendall and died almost instantly.

Kendall arrived at home from the bank at noon and went to his room. A few minutes later the family called him for lunch but he replied that he was not hungry. Shortly afterward the family heard a shot fired and rushed to the room and found him dying.

The following note was found in the room written on an envelope flap: "I'm tired of being sick all the time. Please don't anyone feel too bad about this, it may seem cowardly but I can't help it, Byron."

Kendall had been in ill health for some time but he worked every day in his position. He was a popular member of the younger set and was formerly active in Boy Scout work and had been connected with the bank 10 years. He graduated from the local high school after moving here with his family in 1919.

Surviving are his parents; four brothers, Alton of Washington, D. C., Lieutenant Quentin Kendall of CCC camp, Hardy, Ark., and Ronald and John of DeQueen; three sisters, Mrs. W. R. Henderson, Mariano, Ark., Marjorie and Doris of DeQueen.

Deadline Is Near On Ball Trading

Bill Terry Declares He Will Stand Pat on What He Has

NEW YORK.—(P)—Big league managers are in a scramble to complete pending deals before the Saturday night deadline... every club except the Giants is looking around... Bill Terry says he will stand pat on what he has.

The Cleveland Indians think a top flight catcher may be the difference between the pennant and a second or third place finish and General Manager Billy Evans is dickering for Rolly Hemsey the reformed play-boy of the Browns.

Five National League clubs want Wally Berger, star outfielder of the Braves... Brooklyn offered Fishers Less Muns, Ray Bonoe and Outfielder Stan Bordagary but was turned down... then the Dodgers tried it again with other players and cash... Bill McKechnie said "no can do."

The Yankees offered cash and two players for Sam West of the Browns but Rogers Hornsby laughed... right field still is wide open so far as the Yanks are concerned and they think an outfielder like West will improve chances for a five cent world series.

Connie Mack is busy denying rumors he will peddle Jimmy Fox to the Red Sox for a fancy sum... Joe Cronin could use Fox as the right side of the Boston infield isn't hitting the size of its hat.

The Deans asked to be traded... then took it back... there seems to be nothing doing there since Branch Rickey now says the brothers are in St. Louis to stay awhile.

St. Louis fans are "on" Hornsby for selling so many of his first stringers... They didn't say much when Blac-holder, Newsum or Hadley left, but howled plenty when the "Rajah" sent Oscar Melillo to Boston... Hornsby says if the squawkers would attend the Browns home games he wouldn't have to break up his club.

grand jury. The "comments" charged there was a shortage of $508.65 in Lynch's accounts and that provisions of the county salary act have been "flagrantly disregarded."

The grand jury, after studying the reports, deferred any action against Durden, pending the private audit which it recommended be made by a competent accountant "above politics."

The Grand Jury also called Smith's "Audit Comments" in which Lynch was charged with a shortage "unwarranted."

Smith replied with a statement in which he said "—strange as it may seem, even members of a grand jury have friends they would protect."

Republicans End Grass Roots Meet

Depart Enthusiastic Over Party's Chance to Regain Midwest

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(P)—Having unanimously adopted a "creed," 8,000 Midwest Republicans left for their homes Wednesday enthusiastic over the party's chances to regain the Midwest in 1936.

Without comment, the final session of the two-day "Grass Roots" gathering in state fair grounds coliseum, adopted as the views of the Cornbelt branch of the party and as an invitation to all dissatisfied with New Deal policies, a "declaration of principles" offered by the Resolutions Committee headed by Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, Ill.

It declared for a defense of American institutions, "a sound currency based on gold and definitely stabilized by congress and international in character," a balanced budget "by the honest method of bringing the expenses of the government within the limits of its income," and states' rights.

To labor was held out an approval of "the principles of collective bargaining," wages "consistent with American standards," the outlawing of child labor and protection for women workers.

"Justice" was promised the veterans of all wars and the need for "establishment of old age and unemployment reserves" was recognized.

While its long record of usefulness runs back to 1840, Theodor's Black-Draught is light up to date. Modern medical opinion holds that the plant leaves which give Black-Draught most of its active principle are among the best laxatives in all the acceptable materials of medicine.

Don't let the comfort, roominess, safety and economy of the new Ford car make you forget this outstanding advantage—

EVERYBODY knows that the big advantage of eight cylinders, when it comes to performance, is s-m-o-o-t-h-e-n-e-s-s. Eight even power impulses delivered to the crankshaft in the same space of time as six or four must mean a more continuous flow of power.

Ford owners get this advantage, and they also get economy, ruggedness and compactness because this is a V-type engine—the only V-type, 8-cylinder engine in a car selling for less than $2,300. A V-type engine costs more to build but less to run. A dual down-draft carburetor takes the gasoline used by a four and splits it into eight small charges.

Then, Ford uses aluminum cylinder heads for premium performance on regular-priced gasoline. That means further economy.

Also, this year, Ford moved the engine 8 1/2 inches forward so that all passengers now ride in the "Comfort Zone"—away from the springs, cradled on a 123-inch springbase... That means roominess and comfort. Back seat passengers get a "front seat ride."

Go to a Ford dealer's and look at this car. Note its beauty. Note that Safety Glass all 'round and 6.00 x 16-inch air-balloon tires are standard equipment. And then, ask the dealer to let you drive a Ford V-8. Once you have felt what a V-type, 85 horsepower engine will do, you will never be content with anything less.
